1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the principles of the theory of the motion of a particle in a fluid medium.
It is shown that the motion of a particle in a fluid
medium is determined by the forces acting on it, and that the forces acting on a particle in a fluid medium are the forces of gravity, the forces of buoyancy, and the forces of resistance.
The forces of gravity and the forces of buoyancy
are both proportional to the mass of the particle, and the forces of resistance are proportional to the square of the velocity of the particle.
The forces of gravity and the forces of buoyancy act in opposite directions, and the forces of resistance act in the direction opposite to the direction of motion.
The forces of gravity and the forces of buoyancy
are both constant, and the forces of resistance
are variable.
The forces of gravity and the forces of buoyancy
are both constant, and the forces of resistance
are variable.
The forces of gravity and the forces of buoyancy

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is organized into several lines. The script is dense and flowing, characteristic of historical cursive. There are two prominent dark circular marks, possibly holes or ink blots, on the right side of the page. The text appears to be a continuous narrative or record, possibly related to a legal or administrative matter, given the use of words like "procurator" and "curator" in some of the legible fragments.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in dark ink on aged, yellowish paper. It consists of several lines of text, with some words and phrases written in a larger, more decorative script, possibly indicating a title or a significant section. The text is somewhat faded and difficult to read in many places due to the age and the quality of the reproduction. There are two large black circular marks on the page, possibly from binding or damage.

Handwritten text in Burmese script, likely a manuscript or historical document. The text is written in a cursive style and covers the entire length of the strip. It appears to be a continuous narrative or record, possibly related to a historical event or a personal account. The script is dense and fills most of the available space on the strip.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, yellowish-brown paper. The script is dense and fills most of the page. There are two large, dark circular marks, possibly holes or ink blots, located in the middle of the page. The text appears to be a continuous narrative or record, with some words and phrases that are difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading. The overall appearance is that of an old, well-used document.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is organized into several lines. The script is dense and flowing, characteristic of 18th or 19th-century handwriting. There are two prominent dark circular marks, possibly holes or ink smudges, on the left side of the page. The text appears to be a continuous narrative or record, possibly related to a military or administrative context, given the use of terms like "regiment" and "company" in some of the legible words.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written on a single line across a long, narrow strip of paper. The script is dense and flowing, with many small, connected letters. The paper is aged and shows signs of wear, including two small holes and some discoloration.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a single column across approximately 12 lines. The script is dense and flowing, with many loops and flourishes. The paper is aged and yellowed, with some visible staining and a small dark spot near the center. The text appears to be in a historical language, possibly Latin or a related European script, given the use of capital letters and the overall style. The handwriting is consistent throughout, suggesting a single scribe. The lines of text are closely spaced, and the overall appearance is that of a formal or official document from the 16th or 17th century.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is organized into several lines. The script is dense and flowing, characteristic of 18th or 19th-century handwriting. There are two distinct circular holes punched through the paper, suggesting it was once part of a bound volume or a folder. The text appears to be a continuous narrative or a list of items, though the specific words are difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading.

Handwritten text at the top right corner, possibly a date or a reference number.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is mostly illegible due to fading and the style of the script. There are two distinct circular holes or indentations visible on the left side of the page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is organized into several lines. The script is dense and flowing, characteristic of early modern handwriting. There are two prominent dark circular marks, possibly holes or ink stains, on the right side of the page. The text appears to be a continuous narrative or record, possibly related to a legal or administrative matter, given the formal nature of the script and the presence of what might be a signature or official stamp at the bottom right.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to the study of the asymptotic behavior of the solutions of the system (1) as $t \rightarrow \infty$. It is shown that the solutions of the system (1) tend to zero as $t \rightarrow \infty$ if and only if the matrix A is Hurwitz. The second part of the paper is devoted to the study of the asymptotic behavior of the solutions of the system (1) as $t \rightarrow \infty$ if the matrix A is not Hurwitz. It is shown that the solutions of the system (1) tend to infinity as $t \rightarrow \infty$ if and only if the matrix A is not Hurwitz. The third part of the paper is devoted to the study of the asymptotic behavior of the solutions of the system (1) as $t \rightarrow \infty$ if the matrix A is not Hurwitz and the matrix B is not zero. It is shown that the solutions of the system (1) tend to infinity as $t \rightarrow \infty$ if and only if the matrix A is not Hurwitz and the matrix B is not zero.
